

2009 New Health and Safety Law Poster: What you need to know

The Health and Safety Executive (HSE) published a new, simplified version of the Health and Safety Law poster from April 2009 which replaces the previous 1999 version. If you employ staff, you are legally required to display the Health and Safety Law Poster where workers can easily read it.

The Health and Safety Law Poster includes basic safety information and lets people know who is responsible for health and safety in your workplace. Some details need to be filled in, your local enforcing authority for example. This new version is much more reader friendly depicting colour images.

The Health and Safety Law poster is supplied as a laminated poster and includes write-on boxes to record details of the competent person, your safety representatives and other relevant information. Each poster features a unique, serially numbered hologram so that you can be sure you have a genuine version. The size of the Health and Safety Law Poster is approx. 590 x 420mm.

It is still permissible to display the old 1999 poster until 5th April 2014.
